

Personal Safety Products from DeltaTRAK

In order to protect health care workers who may come in contact with persons infected with the H1N1 flu virus, the CDC recommends that a combination of preventive measures be used including facemasks and respirators, along with eye protection using goggles or face shields, and using double gloves. A respirator that fits snugly on the face can filter out small particles. The Gerson 2130 Respirator Mask is N95 NIOSH and FDA approved. DeltaTRAK can provide your health care facility with the appropriate safety products to protect your employees.
